Your generosity, their stories of success

Every child who enters Childhaven has a story. Trauma, abuse and neglect have impacted their young brains, putting them at risk for a lifetime of mental and physical health problems.

Because of you, their stories are being rewritten. Because of you, there is hope for a happy future.

Childhaven heals children and families to stop the cycle of abuse and neglect.

We know how to apply the lessons of brain science to create strong foundations and develop resilient children. And we support caregivers as they learn to build nurturing family bonds.

Our role as an organization is to transform your generosity into change. Over the past year, we have taken important strides in ensuring our collective story is one of future success.

We enacted a new strategic plan that will focus and direct our activities for the next three to five years around the following goals:

- better serve children and their families by strengthening Childhaven's core services
- expand beyond our current services to dramatically increase our impact
- advance Childhaven’s leadership position on the broader issue of ending child abuse and neglect

In the spring of 2015, we became a licensed mental health facility. This certification bolsters the life-changing work our program leaders and child and family therapists have been doing for years and opens up new federal funding channels.

The achievements and transformations shared in this report are only possible because of you. Thank you for giving every child who enters Childhaven a chance at a story with a happy ending.

With gratitude,

Maria Chavez Wilcox
Childhaven President and CEO
Even after her CPS case was dropped, Stephanie struggled to raise her son Dean in one homeless shelter after another. “I was turned down more than thirty times for housing. I didn't want Dean living on the street with me,” she said.

With no parenting role models of her own, Stephanie’s stress and quick temper put her relationship with Dean at risk. At Childhaven, she found that copying teachers’ gestures and phrases helped her and Dean remain calm. Now when her three-year-old throws tantrums, she knows to look him in the eye and show him gentle hands.

At Childhaven, Dean has become a bright, inquisitive boy who loves to spout off complicated dinosaur names. His mom couldn't be more proud.

“I’ve learned if I strive to do my best at parenting, things will improve for both of us,” Stephanie said.

For more than two years, Stephanie has been a regular at the parenting support group. She loves the art projects and shared laughter. Most importantly, it’s a source of practical tips and encouragement.

“Another parent will share what’s going on with their kid and you think — OK, I'm not alone.”

Secure in new transitional housing, Stephanie has a bulletin board covered with every piece of artwork Dean brings home from Childhaven.

Her favorite? Two tiny hand prints with the words, “I love you, Mom.”
Your investment makes all the difference

When you support Childhaven, you do more than provide a safe place for children to heal, learn, and grow. Our proven strategies impact parents and children together, creating a new cycle of hope for generations to come.

For year ending June 30, 2015

You give, and we lead

Sharing Our Knowledge
Childhaven continued to partner with Harvard University’s Frontiers of Innovation program and researchers at University of California, Berkeley. Together we developed new science-based interventions that use organized game playing to help children filter distractions, prioritize tasks, and control impulses.

Caring for Our Community
In 2015, Childhaven was honored with a Community Impact Award by Seattle Business magazine and President and CEO Maria Chavez Wilcox was named to ParentMap magazine’s list of Superheroes for Washington Families.

Advocating for Children
Throughout the 2014-2015 year, Childhaven partnered with corporate, government, and nonprofit agencies to raise public awareness and advocate for programs, policies, and funding to meet the needs of vulnerable children and families experiencing trauma in our community and beyond.
Your strength in numbers

355 at-risk babies, toddlers, and preschoolers received our therapeutic trauma care.

Teachers clocked 456,000 miles in our vans to pick up and drop off children every day.

Childhaven parents and caregivers spent 680 hours honing their skills in parent support groups, kindergarten prep meetings, and the Incredible Years and Triple P Parenting programs.

83 percent of our graduates last year met the criteria to be deemed socially ready to enter kindergarten.

100 percent of the children in our care received medical screenings and supervision by our staff nurses and 98 percent had a primary care physician.

Each program staff member had 96 hours of training on topics such as promoting parent-child relationships, first aid, car seat safety, and techniques to calm tense situations.

At the end of the 2015 fiscal year, 87 percent of the $20 million campaign goal had been raised to protect and strengthen core services and expand our reach. Thank you, Second Century donors!

LOOK HOW MUCH GOOD YOUR GIFT HAS DONE!
Damien was afraid to talk about what was happening at home. When he was given finger puppets, he felt safe enough to act it out.

Hazel showed no emotion as a result of neglect. When a teacher taught her to make happy and sad faces in a mirror, she gave her first cautious smile.

Gabriel was given a cold wash cloth to bite and twist away his anger. Eventually he began carrying a dry one in his pocket, and now he doesn’t need one at all.

You inspire breakthrough moments every day
Because of you, the Childhaven story is one of hope. We are humbled by your support. On behalf of our children and families, thank you.

“Childhaven addresses a huge problem holistically — both from the kids’ perspective early in their lives as well as working with their parents on parenting skills.”

Bimal Wadhwa, Childhaven volunteer
Do you want to deepen your connection to our mission? There are ways for you to take action and help those who need it most.

From workplace giving to tribute gifts to contributions of stock, Childhaven has a donation option that is right for you.

Help us raise money and hope by attending or sponsoring an event. You can create your own event or promotion too!

See what’s happening behind the scenes at Childhaven by becoming a volunteer or joining us for an interactive tour.
